

SUAREZ ACCEPTS PAN-AMERICAN POST

Chilean Ambassador to Head
Scientific Congress Meeting
Here.

Ambassador Eduardo Suarez, of Chile, has formally accepted the invitation of the United States, tendered through Secretary of State Lansing, to act as president of the second Pan-American Scientific Congress, which convenes on December 27.

The Pan-American Union also announced that Ambassador Suarez will call at the State Department today with the delegates from Chile and the delegates from Argentina, who arrived yesterday.

Director John Barrett, of the Pan-American Union, the secretary general of the congress, has received advice from several other South and Central American delegates announcing their early arrival in Washington. Dr. Alonso Reyes, of Salvador, who made a trip of eighty miles in a motorboat in the Pacific ocean to catch the steamer that would bring him to this country from San Jose, Guatemala, is en route with Dr. Rafael Meza, representative of the National Institute of Salvador, and will arrive here a few days.

Three new delegates have been added to the congress of Venezuelan representatives, according to a dispatch received yesterday from the American minister at Caracas. These include Dr. Jose L. Andara, former minister of foreign affairs, Dr. Vicente Lecuna, and Dr. Rafael Gonzalez Rincones, former president of the chamber of deputies. They are due to arrive in New York on December 28. With them will come the delegates from Venezuela who will attend the congress as the guests of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. These are Dr. Andres Barrantes, former secretary of the Bureau of American Republics; Simon Barcelo, former Venezuelan charge d'affaires in Paris and member of the Venezuelan society of international law, and N. Velozgoticos, former secretary of the Venezuelan high commission on the uniformity of laws.

While events are being planned for Washington in honor of the foreign delegates which will turn the Christmas season in the capital into a sort of Latin-American holiday, similar plans are under way in New York, where most of the visitors will first touch this country. The Pan-American Society of the United States, it is announced by Director Barrett, is arranging a great banquet in New York on the night of January 12 or 13.

Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia, has informed Mr. Barrett that there will be a "Pan-American Congress Day" at Columbia.

Congressman Gardner To Talk On Defense

Congressman Augustus J. Gardner of Massachusetts will make a brief address on national defense, tomorrow night at Continental Memorial Hall in connection with the exhibition of the motion picture spectacle, "The Battle of Pease," to which the William Cummings Story has invited a number of distinguished men and women of the city.

Rear Admiral Colby Chester, president of the Sons of the American Revolution, J. Stuart Blackton, of a motion picture company, and Eudley P. Malone, collector of the port of New York, will also make brief addresses. In addition, the Secretary of State and Mrs. Lansing, the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Houston, and the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. McAdoo will be among the guests.

Student Artillery Body Will Elect Officers

The newly organized coast artillery company from George Washington University will select officers early in January. These will be chosen through a competitive examination. The company now is known as the Fifth company, Coast Artillery, District National Guard.

Hickling Heads Medical Jurisprudence Society

Dr. D. Percy Hickling has been chosen president of the Society of Medical Jurisprudence of the District. J. Miller Kenyon, vice president, and Spencer Gordon, secretary and treasurer. The following have been elected members of the board of trustees: Dr. William A. White, Frederick A. Penning, Dr. D. Percy Hickling, Ralph Barnard, Dr. Lewis H. Taylor, J. Miller Kenyon, Clarence E. Wilson, Dr. A. R. Shands, Dr. Bernard Gluck, Spencer Gordon, and George Curtis Shinn.

Tells How Animated
Cartoons Are Made
To Become Real
Film Actors.

An accidental feature of motion picture entertainment, which has become a rather large factor in many film programs, is the animated cartoon, without which none of the big producing companies seem to be able to get along nowadays. There is probably no feature of motion picture work that requires quite so much preparation or so much actual labor as the making of these queer mannikins that seem to draw themselves on the screen as pen-and-ink figures and then spring into action, however swift that action might be. The audience seems never to tire of the antics of "Col. Heeza Liar," the original pen-and-ink photoplayer, and his successors in entertainment.

Since the beginning of the animated cartoons there have been many improvements made in the methods of making the thousands of pictures that enter into the construction of every reel of such films. J. E. Riney, the man who first drew the drawing of pictures for film production, and who, by the way, has just joined the staff of the cartoonists, is a keen student of public taste, as all cartoonists are, and is most enthusiastic over the prospects of the amount of labor involved in the making of a cartoon which is first reproduced again and again in the action of the figures (as drawn upon it).

"The possibilities of the moving drawing," he says when asked, "are unlimited. They are dependent only upon the imagination of the artist. At the present time we have a staff of six cartoonists, twenty assistant artists and four cameramen constantly at work. An idea of the amount of labor entailed may be gained from the knowledge that there are thirty-four different processes to be undergone by each cartoon, and that there are from 2,000 to 4,000 cartoons in each thousand feet of completed film. Hence a week's output involves from 100,000 to 150,000 pictures."

"When the last of cartoons is completed four expert cameramen photograph them to obtain the negative film. An important feature of the invention consists of a method for controlling the speed of action in the picture. This is done by varying the number of photographs taken of each cartoon. When the action comes to a stop numerous photographs are taken of the same picture, the number being dependent upon the length of time that the action is suspended."

"This perpetual background may be easily erased or drawn over," Mr. Riney continued. "What is more, a large number of copies are printed with portions of the background omitted. This obviates the necessity of erasing to a great extent."

"In order that movement may be both steady and continuous on the screen, great care must be taken in the drawing of the cartoons, a task greatly simplified by our use of tracing paper. The artist merely places a piece of paper upon the last drawing, so that the position last taken by the figures shows clearly through the paper. Thus he is able to draw in the next position carefully and easily."

This Frees Your Skin From Hair or Fuzz

(Toilet Tips.)

The method here suggested for the removal of superfluous hair is quick and certain, and unless the growth is extremely stubborn, a single application does the work. Make a stiff paste with some powdered talc and water, apply this to the hairy surface, and after about 2 minutes rub it off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. To avoid disappointment, be sure your druggist sells you talcine.—Adv.

HEALTH RULES GIVEN TO AVOID PNEUMONIA

District Department Warns Against Disease—Twenty-one Deaths
Last Week.

Directing attention to twenty-one deaths from pneumonia during the week ended December 11, the Health Department in its weekly bulletin advises care and precaution to prevent the disease. The following suggestions are offered:

Avoid crowded assembly halls. Secure an adequate supply of fresh air at all times.

Walk as much as possible, thus obtaining the benefit of the exercise and avoiding crowded street cars.

Pay due regard to dress. Abstain from alcoholic liquors.

"Unfortunately," an increase in the number of cases of pneumonia is to be expected with the advent of cold weather," says the report. "It is agreed by those who have made a study of the subject that, except in the case of undue exposure, it is not the decreased prevalence of pneumonia, but the defective ventilation incident to the cold. From now on until warm weather special care should be exercised by the aged and the very young, and by the debilitated to prevent contracting this disease."

Of the twenty-one deaths reported last week, seven of the decedents were over sixty years of age, and seven under five, showing that two-thirds of the deaths were among those at the extremes of life.

NOTED EDUCATORS TO ATTEND FORUM

Civic Betterment to Be Discussed
By American Federation.
Miss Wilson to Preside.

Noted educators, social workers, artists and leaders in civic work will participate in a forum for the discussion of civic matters which will be conducted under the auspices of the American Federation during its four day convention in this city beginning December 28.

Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the President, will be among those who will preside at the various sessions devoted to special discussions. Miss Wilson will indicate her interest particularly in the development of community centers in schools. This will be Miss Wilson's first appearance as presiding officer at a public gathering. At the same session Prof. E. J. Ward of the University of Wisconsin will speak on "Community Center Organization for National Defense and World Adjustment."

Students Plan Feast.

Plans for the annual banquet of the Washington College of Law, at Rauschenbachers, are being completed. The banquet is a civic work of which Miss S. Christine Quaker is president. The nominees for speaker for the banquet are Ray, Howard E. Crist, Herbert L. Shierman, E. R. Friend, M. H. Greenwalt, James V. Hamilton, and Guy P. Goblebrenner. The election will take place on Monday evening.

WHEN WALLINGFORD
LOST HIS TEMPER.

HOY for the wintry blasts—the icy snow-decked breezes! Ahoy for the parlor of the small-town inn, whose little fire strives faintly to cast some warmth on the spacious frame of the most disconsolate J. Rufus Wallingford.

The almost always jovial high-art financier is now doubly intent to wreak vengeance on the victim, Quirker.

When Wallingford is in good humor the victim has a chance, but when Wallingford is in temper there is no escaping him.

To be sure, he will be new to you, but he will be perfectly understandable, for each one of these Wallingford episodes is absolutely distinct and apart.

George Randolph Chester, the creator of Wallingford, himself declares that at no point during his virile narrative of these quaint characters has he so dramatically infused life into the printed page. It is one thing to see the motion pictures, but a far superior delight to read in combination with them the story every week in the
